ABOUT CPR

Established in 1977, CPR is an independent nonprofit organization that promotes the prevention and resolution of conflict to better enable the pursuit of purpose through the CPR Institute and its subsidiary, CPR Dispute Resolution Services LLC.

The CPR Institute builds capacity for dispute prevention and resolution through the thought leadership of its diverse members – companies, leading mediators and arbitrators, law firms, individual practitioners, and academics – who share best practices and develop innovative tools for dispute management through committee discussions and projects, publications, education and training, and hosting events.

CPR Dispute Resolution is a boutique-style provider of leading-edge dispute management services – mediation, arbitration, custom appointing services, a panel of dispute prevention specialists, and more - that leverages resources generated by the CPR Institute. The case administrators are responsive, efficient, and detail oriented, and have extensive backgrounds in alternative dispute resolution (ADR). The Panel of Distinguished Neutrals is a carefully curated, diverse group of prominent, experienced subject matter and ADR professionals based in 35 countries. And CPR Dispute Resolution's Complete Case platform, a holistic end-to-end digital environment designed for ADR, handles matters efficiently and securely. Admission to the Panel of Distinguished Neutrals is a selective process. All CPR neutrals are expected to maintain the highest ethical standards as set out by the governing ethical codes and rules. We strive for geographic and other diversity.

REQUIREMENTS:

In evaluating applications, CPR considers candidates' education, experience with commercial or employment matters, ADR training, ADR experience, references and, where appropriate, substantive experience in a given field.

- Experience as a neutral: applicants (except for those applying via Global Pathways and Employment Pathways) will be required to list the number of times they have sat as an arbitrator or mediator and provide references from someone who can speak to their skill as an arbitrator or mediator (e.g. counsel who have sat before them on a matter, co-arbitrators or co-mediators, etc.).
- Substantive experience: applicants applying to any subject-matter panel will be required to provide a statement detailing their qualifications for the specified panel (e.g. percent of time spent in training or practice in that area, description of cases handled, etc.). Please note that some specialty panels will require additional information as well.

APPLICATIONS:

To apply, please prepare your completed application, consisting of the following:

- your completed Application Form (which can be downloaded from drs.cpradr.org/neutrals/become-a-neutral);
- a cover letter explaining your experience with complex commercial matters;
- two letters of reference (see page 9 of the application);
- and a processing fee of US $150.00 + US $50 per specialty panel to which you are applying.
- Please send all the documents via email to cprneutrals@cpradr.org

REVIEW:

Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis, and the time from application to decision can vary based on the number of applicants, the current caseload, and other factors. Applications for any specialty panels can take longer to review but will not prevent the remainder of the application from being processed and reviewed.

Once CPR has decided on the application, CPR will require a successful applicant to complete their biography/profile via the CPR Dispute Resolution Complete Case platform.

CPR's database is open to the public, although some aspects of your neutral profile are visible only to CPR Case Staff. Users have online access 24/7 to the CPR Panel of Distinguished Neutrals and use it to select neutrals not only in CPR cases, but also in cases under other institutions' rules.
